

111 Vulnerable Consumer Register Form

Complete this application form if you want Slingshot to consider you, (or someone else you are applying on behalf of), as a Vulnerable Consumer under the 111 Contact Code.

The 111 Contact Code ensures people with a landline (home phone) and a higher likelihood than other customers of needing to call 111, have a way of reaching emergency services during a power outage. To apply, read through the Important Information to see if you qualify as a Vulnerable Consumer under the 111 Contact Code, gather supporting documentation if needed and complete the application form.

This form can ONLY be completed by one of the following people:

- A customer (the account holder); or
- A person who is listed as an authority on the customer's account; or
- The customer or person listed as an authority on the customer's account on behalf of someone who lives at the premises where the home phone line is supplied.

Before submitting your application, please check that you have:

- Read the Important Information on eligibility criteria & Guidance Notes (Part E)
- Completed the application form; and
- Provided the information in support of the application (either Nominated Person's details or supporting documentation).

Important Information

To qualify as a Vulnerable Consumer under the 111 Contact Code a person must meet all of the following criteria:

- You, or the person you are applying on behalf of, is at particular risk of needing to call 111 emergency services, (either now or sometime in the near future), for health, safety or disability reasons.
- You have a Orcon landline service provided over broadband (Fibre or Fixed Wireless), or you have a Orcon Home Line Plus copper service. (Orcon Home Line Basic copper customers will not qualify under the 111 Contact Code, as this service will remain working in the event of a mains power outage provided you have a compatible phone). Customers using broadband only, or mobile only customers, do not qualify as a Vulnerable Consumer under the 111 Contact Code.
- In the event of a power failure, you, (or the person you are applying on behalf of), have no other way to contact the 111 emergency service at the premise that will work for a continuous 8-hour period. (For example, you do not have access to a mobile phone that the Vulnerable Consumer can use at the landline premise, or your services are not already protected by a backup generator or battery).
- If the appropriate means for contacting the 111 emergency services we supply in compliance with the 111 Contact Code is rejected by a Vulnerable Consumer or their representative, the application may be considered withdrawn, and no alternative means needs to be supplied. However, consumers retain the right to reapply at any time to be a Vulnerable Consumer.

Part E: Guidance Notes

Guidance Note 1

For a person to be covered by the 111 Contact Code they must be 'at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service'.

Part B asks for information to confirm the person who is applying to be covered by the 111 Contact Code is 'at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service'. The person could be 'at particular risk' now or sometime in the near future, and they may be at risk on a temporary or permanent basis. The person must not have a means of accessing 111 in a power outage (for example, they must not have access to a mobile phone they can use or have an appropriate battery backup).

What does 'at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service' mean?

A person who is "at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service" means a person who is more likely than other people to require the 111 emergency service because of a specific circumstance.

The following scenarios illustrate some situations where a person may be considered 'at particular risk' under the 111 Contact Code.

Scenario one

Mary and Joe are pensioners living together. These days Joe is unsteady on his feet. He has fallen over a couple of times recently. Mary is active but spends most of her time at home looking after Joe. Mary is worried that the next time Joe falls he might seriously injure himself.

Scenario two

Fatima has type 2 diabetes and is in the early stages of dementia. Fatima needs to take medication every day to manage her conditions.

Scenario three

Jennifer's father has moved back into the family home. He's been verbally and physically abusive to family members in the past and Jennifer is worried that it might happen again.

Scenario four

Tane is booked in to have both knees replaced. He lives alone and is worried about complications or a fall and needing to access the 111 emergency service during recovery over the next three months.

What do the Health, Safety and Disability categories in Question 4 mean?

This question asks you to select which of three categories (health, safety or disability) most closely relates to the specific circumstance you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) has that means you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is 'at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service'.

If you tick the health category, this means the specific circumstance that makes you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service is related to health. For example, it is a known medical condition.

An example of a specific circumstance that may mean you tick the safety category is family violence. An example of a specific circumstance that may mean you tick the disability category is sensory impairment, intellectual impairment or physical impairment.

Do I have to be 'at particular risk' now, or could it be sometime in the future?

A person may not be 'at particular risk' now, but they know they will become 'at particular risk' sometime in the near future. For example, a person who has a planned surgical operation.

How can a person be 'at particular risk' on a temporary or permanent basis?

A person may be 'at particular risk' because they have suffered a physical injury, but the person expects to recover from this injury after a certain period of time. In these circumstances, the person is only 'at particular risk' on a temporary basis.

An example of a person who may be 'at particular risk' on a permanent basis is a person who has congenital blindness and will not recover.

Question 5 asks you to tell us whether the specific circumstance that makes you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) 'at particular risk' is on a temporary or permanent basis.

Guidance Note 2

Part C asks for information to support the answers given to Q7a and Q7b. One of the following must be provided:

- (a) sufficient evidence to support that you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is (or will become) at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service; or
- (b) the details of a nominated person we can contact to verify that you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is (or will become) at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service.

Who can be a Nominated Person?

A nominated person must be someone who, by virtue of their occupation, is competent to give an opinion on whether you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service.

For example, if the health or disability category has been ticked in response to Q6, then a health practitioner (such as a GP) could be a nominated person. If the safety category has been ticked, then a police officer, a currently registered social worker, a lawyer (with a current practicing certificate), or a family court judge could be a nominated person.

We strongly recommend that before you make your application to us, you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) first contact the nominated person to discuss the application and are aware that Orcon may be in direct contact with them

If I don't provide the details of a nominated person, what sort of evidence must be provided?

It must be sufficient information to show that you (or the person you are applying on behalf of) is (or will become) at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service.

Examples of evidence that may be sufficient include:

- a completed Electricity Authority 'Notice of Potential Medically Dependent Consumer (MDC) Status' form, which includes a certification from a DHB, private hospital or GP ;
- a protection order;
- a letter from a health practitioner (eg, a GP); or
- documentation of impairment (eg, an ID card).

Guidance Note 3

Part D asks you to make some declarations regarding the content you have provided in the application, and to acknowledge that you understand what we (the provider) may do with the information you have provided in the application.

One of the declarations asks you to declare that the person who wants to be added to Orcon Vulnerable Consumer Register:

- is (or will become) at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service (information on what this means is provided in Guidance Note 1); and
- does not have a means to contact the 111 emergency service that can be operated at the premises for a continuous 8-hour period in the event of a power failure"

What is the 111 emergency service?

The 111 emergency service includes the ambulance service, police service and fire and emergency service

What does 'a means to contact the 111 emergency service that can be operated at the premises for a continuous 8-hour period in the event of power failure' mean?

It means the person has a way of contacting the 111 emergency service at the premises where they live.

The means must be available to use to contact the 111 emergency service during an 8-hour period. It does not mean, however, that the device must be able to be actively used for 8-hours.

A person will have a way of contacting the 111 emergency service if:

- the premises where they live is receiving a Orcon Home Phone Basic copper landline service (because this service will continue to work in a power cut);
- the person has unrestricted access to a mobile phone and the premises where they live has adequate mobile phone network coverage; or
- the person has an uninterruptable power supply to maintain a means for contacting the 111 emergency service in the event of a power failure (for example, a battery back-up).

General Guidance

What is the 111 Contact Code?

The purpose of the 111 Contact Code is to ensure that consumers who are at particular risk of requiring the 111 emergency service, and do not have a means for contacting the 111 emergency service, have reasonable access (or persons on their behalf do) to an appropriate means (for example, a mobile phone) to contact the 111 emergency service in the event of a power failure.

If you have a dispute about your (or your telecommunication company's) rights and obligations under the 111 Contact Code, you have a right for that dispute to be referred to an industry dispute resolution scheme to resolve. A consumer's right to take a dispute under the 111 Contact Code to an industry dispute resolution scheme is protected under the Telecommunications Act 2001 (sections 241-245). Currently, the relevant industry dispute resolution scheme is the Telecommunications Dispute Resolution Scheme.

The 111 Contact Code is administered by the Commerce Commission. More information on the 111 Contact Code, and a copy of the 111 Contact Code, is available on the Commerce Commission's website here: <https://comcom.govt.nz/regulated-industries/telecommunications/projects/commission-111-contact-code>

What is the Telecommunications Dispute Resolution Scheme?

The Telecommunications Dispute Resolution Scheme is a free, independent service to help consumers with complaints about their telecommunications provider. A dispute between a consumer and a telecommunications company about their rights and obligations under the 111 Contact Code may be referred to this scheme.

For more information on the Telecommunications Dispute Resolution Scheme you can contact us at Orcon and we will refer to where to find more information, or you can read more about the scheme and how to contact them on their website here: <https://www.tdr.org.nz/about-tdr/all-about-tdr>
